

Donald Trump's American System Revolution

On April 2, 2025, Donald Trump launched the second American Revolution with his announcements about tariffs and other policies designed to march manufacturers and industrialists back into this country, after they left to pursue cheap labor and shareholder profits. Simultaneously, he is launching science drivers: the colonization of the Moon and Mars, fusion and advanced nuclear power, space-based defenses to incoming missiles—all with the goal of making America the inventor once again of the next technological frontier. Simultaneously, he is ending the forever wars and dismantling the censorship and lawfare apparatus which has waged a color revolution against Americans for the past 10 years.

This is making our present globalist elites very, very angry as their world dies. They are yapping incessantly, circulating new lies and fabricated scandals every second. They say you can't put the toothpaste back in the tube, that an economy which was completely failing almost everyone but them and heading for collapse, was fine and dandy. They are attempting to sow as much fear and confusion as possible to save themselves. Those who have engaged in sedition know, of course, that justice is coming for them and they are also determined to survive, shredding the Constitution if necessary to save themselves.

We Are On a Great New Mission

They believed that Donald Trump would never keep his campaign promises; and he promised all of this. This is the path to empowering Main Street and the working and middle classes, to making it possible for one income to support a family.

It is also a call to a great national mission once again, like JFK's call to go to the Moon. We did that and spun off all the necessities of modern life as technologies and discoveries from that mission. The imaginations of an entire generation of young people were fired with that challenge and a new generation of scientists and engineers made fundamental new discoveries about the nature of life and the universe.

Trump's cabinet is studying the World War II mobilization of American industry, particularly the conversion of the automobile industry, to stand up this renewed economic superpower as rapidly as possible. They are cutting the regulatory red tape. They are getting bureaucrats and naysayers out of the way.

But this is, also, a war, a dramatic transformation of the entire world in which the globalist elites are being vanquished but, while wounded, still wield dangerous amounts of power. Mark Carney, the new head of Canada, is one of them, the British Commonwealth countries, and Europe are in their thrall. Here, they still control much of the court system, large chunks of the intelligence community, Wall Street, the law firms, foundations, colleges and universities, and entire states like California, where Governor Gavin Newsom responded to Trump's tariffs by declaring his fealty to the One World globalist order. As in any war, victory will not be easy. It will be hard as in all wars or great endeavors. And, as in all wars there will be casualties and tragedies but there will also be heroes and triumphs.

The Force of Love Will Sustain Us

As he did in the election of 2024, Donald Trump is betting the house, that Americans will rise to the challenge of being productive citizens, not the underlings and mental slaves the oligarchs need to maintain their control. He believes in the power of love, that the peoples' love of him, their love of God, their love of family, their love of country, will sustain and fire their souls in this battle.

God has given each of us a talent and a mission to be exercised for the benefit of those who come after us. Nurturing that God-given potential for creativity and discovery is what the "pursuit of happiness" in our Declaration of Independence means.

Promethean Action exists to promote and expand upon these policies and make sure they are implemented. Many of us worked with Lyndon LaRouche for 50 years, where we fought for tariffs and many aspects of Trump's economic policies. We know this universe. It is not new to us. We know how to educate people about it.

The associated political action committee, Promethean PAC, aims to impact the 2026 midterms, ensuring that candidates passionately committed to these ideas are elected to Congress.
